Make a List

by Lisa Bucki

She has lists of lists:
  What to do before breakfast.
  Things to accomplish by lunch.
  Musts by dinner.
  Ways to relax before bed.
  Christmas presents to buy now!

She has her curlers in her hair so often that you'd swear she has a pink tint or was meant by the stars to be a hairdresser.

At the top of tomorrow's list:
  Make all lists for next week.

In the end, her dinner gets cooked, her husband's shirts are mended, and the kids' toys are put away.

But her hair remains in curlers, she never buys that new dress, and the lists keep coming on and on.
