Vol. II, No. 3

MSS

Essay
Poetry
Short Story

March, 1935
CONTENTS

Woodcut, "Invitation To Poetry"—Laurna Smith ...................... 4
Poems ........................................ Barbara Oakes ................ 5
To Live and to Suffer ................................ Rebecca Blackley ........ 6
It's Golden ...................................... Mary C. Funkhouser ... 6
In Spite of Words ................................ Frederic Winter ....... 9
Poems ........................................ Grace Ferguson ................. 9
Gingham Dog .................................... Louise Dauner .......... 10
Luncheon Club .................................. Grace Ferguson .......... 12
East Street ..................................... Louise Dauner .......... 14
A Group of "Characters" ......................... Arleen Wilson, Gene Smith 15
The Hired Man ................................ Jane Moore ................. 16
Good Crop ..................................... Max Stuckey ................. 16
Sand Castles .................................. Louise Dauner .......... 17
Days ............................................. Martha Rose Scott ...... 19
Blemish ........................................ Louise Garrigus .......... 19
Go! ............................................... Frederic Winter ........... 19
Beyond Waters ................................ Christie Rudolph .......... 19
Classicism and Romanticism ..................... Jane Beuret .......... 19
Woodcut ....................................... Laurna Smith .......... 20
Mary of Scotland ............................. Georgia Mae Foster ..... 21
Freshman Boners ................................ 29
Maggie Lawns ................................ Irvin Caplin ................. 29
Individualism .................................. Lucile Brench ............ 31
MSS

EDITORS
Louise Daumer, Editor-In-Chief

Barbara Oakes
Rebecca Blackley
Arleen Wilson

Kenneth Harlan
Grace Ferguson
Jane Beuret

Gene Smith

FACULTY SPONSORS
Dr. Allegra Stewart
Professor Don Sparks

• •

Foreword

MSS is proud of the representative poetry featured in this issue. For both the increase in quantity and improvement in quality of the poems submitted, the editors are indebted to the course in Verse Forms. They would not be too sanguine, but they feel that it is possible and eminently valuable to foster an interest in the appreciation of poetry and in the writing of verse at Butler.

• •

Published four times a year by students of the English Department of Butler University Indianapolis, Ind.

Printed by the Butler University Press

Price, 15c a Copy