

ALPHABETIC INSERTIONS IN FIVE-LETTER PALINDROMES

JEFF GRANT

Hastings, New Zealand

In 'A Palindromic Alphabetic Insertion' (WW, Nov 1982), we displayed a set of 3-letter palindromes of the form A-A, covering every combination from AAA, chief signet-bearer in the land of the Kens, under the Egyptian king Aspalut, through to AZA, a male given name of Hebrew origin meaning 'the noble'.
'Another Palindromic Insertion' (WW, Aug 1992) explored the letter set A- -A, giving examples for all but three of the double-letter alphabetic insertions, from AAAA, a Tahitian interjection of laughter or ridicule, to AZZA, a wadi in Iran. Examples have now been found for the missing combinations.

AEEA an islet in antiquity, situated in the gulf of Squillace, an arm of the Mediterranean Sea. (Enciclopedia Universal Ilustrada, a 70-volume Spanish work published c1905-30)

A'OOA foolish:abject, in the Gilbertese language of Kiribati, West Pacific. (Gilbertese-English Dictionary, H. Bingham, 1908)
