WHAT'S IN? – A NAME! – Part III

STEVE KAHAN
Hollis Hills, New York

In this third installment of “What’s In? – A Name!”, five-letter names have been removed from forty words and the remaining letters have been presented in consolidated form. For example, ‘can’ would readmit NADIA to reconstruct caNADIAAn, a perfectly fine response were proper nouns eligible as answers. (They are not!) To make matters a bit more interesting this time, the genders, while equally represented, have been mixed together, much like the dorms in many modern-day colleges. Your goal is to imbibe the invisible names into their compressions in order to identify the original word. Happy hunting!
