1. nerve (nerves) 2. six (IX) 3. seven (even) 4. 21 (It's a list of those integers spelled with an odd number of letters.) 5. a frequent and insincere promise giver 6. the UN-building 7. condor
8. No, according to most dictionaries, and Scrabble, even "agreer" isn't a word. These august authorities are, shall we say, dis-agreers. But I'm a dis-agreeee. H. W. Fowler in the equally august Modern English Usage (Oxford 1926) states that "the agent termination -er can be added to any English verb." Sadly, -ee is not listed there at all. Shucks, the whole point of the question was an excuse to use four e's in a row. But even there I should perhaps settle for threee, modelling on "agreed" rather than "agreeded". Agreee?
9. Rhyme endings, with approximate word counts: -ation 1100, -ate 975, -ism 845* (Who said Ismism is dead?), -ize (including -ys/-ies) 775, -ay (long a) 615, -ility 440, -on (as in con) 415, -ow (as in low) 400, -ee 390 [but not -er!], -ar(r)y 385. / * For almost every -ism I'd expect an -ist, yet surprisingly -ist didn't come close to making the list, at a mere 52 rhymes. M-W obviously has no truck with communists or Methodists, thus indicating the arbitrariness of these answers. Another example that M-W failed to list is the large numbers of -ess endings whose ultimate syllables have primary or secondary accents, both -less and -ness. They list 120 -ess rhymes but include no -ness and only 3 -less (un-, none- and nevertheless). Add this carelessness to the deficiency of -ist endings and the Merriam-Webster Essential Rhyming Dictionary's definitiveness is looking shaky. Can you think of other major suffixes that have been slighted? There are only 23 listings for -able, for example, but most of the -ables I could think of have antepenultimate accents, which disenables them.
10. The 6 (with a common-letter A-neighbor each): Burundi (Tanzania), Republic of the Congo (Dem. Rep. of the Congo), Lesotho (South Africa), Niger (Mali), Seychelles (Madagascar), Turkey (Iraq). The other 25: Belgium (France), Belize [Brit. Honduras] (Guatemala), Benin [Dahomey] (Nigeria), Brunei (Malaysia), Chile (Argentina), Comoros (Madagascar), Côte D'Ivoire [Ivory Coast] (Liberia), Cyprus (Syria), Czech Rep. (Slovak Rep.), Djibouti (Ethiopia), Egypt (Libya), Fiji (Solomon Is.), Greece (Bulgaria), Hong Kong (China), Liechtenstein (Austria), Luxembourg (Germany), Mexico (USA), Morocco (Algeria), Peru (Brazil), Philippines (Taiwan), Puerto Rico (Dominican Rep.), Sweden (Norway), Togo (Ghana), United Kingdom (Ireland), Yemen (Oman).
11. Surprisingly, only 4-7 pairs of truly contiguous nations lack a common letter in their map names: Chad-Niger, Egypt-Sudan, Peru-Colombia, Yemen-Saudi Arabia, ± Togo-Benin [but not Dahomey], Albania-Greece [but not Hellas/Ellas/Hellenic Rep.] and Ghana-Cote d'Ivoire [but not Ivory Coast]. However 10 more ill-letterate pairs are neighbors directly across an expanse of water: Cyprus-Lebanon, Djibouti-Yemen, Latvia-Sweden, Morocco-Spain, 2 for Tanzania—with Comoros and Seychelles, and a whopping 5 for Fiji—with Vanuatu, Tuvalu, Samoa, Nauru and Tonga. Combining the two lists, Yemen also has two. But not a single pair of neighboring countries anywhere lack a common letter in their official names, largely because so many are named Republic of.
12. This was a trick question. There are 19 states sharing one or more letters with all the others, 20 if you count Washington DC. Fifteen (AZ, CA, IN, LA, ME, MI, MN, NH, NC, PA, RI, SC, VA, WA, WV) contain the letters A, N and I (occurring in 36, 33, and 28 states respectively), at least one of which letters occurs in every state. Three of the other four (GA, MT, SD) contain an O, occurring in 27 states, plus A. MA needs six letters to connect to all: A, S (in 21 states), E (20), T (15), H (14) or M (13).
13. The most out of touch state is OH, which nonetheless misses only twelve. Ten others miss more than three: AL, KY and UT miss 9, MS 8, TN 7, AK and OR 6, NJ 5, HI and ID 4.
14. Yes. The unconnected neighbours are: AL-TN, KY-OH and UT-WY. Add UT-NM if they be taken as contiguous at a mathematical point. One might arguably count OR-AK and OR-HI, although both Alaska and Hawaii are nearer to another state than to Oregon.
15. Alaska 16. Florida, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, New York, Texas, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming. 17. Switzerland 18. Slovak Republic; Mozambique (+ Belorussia before it became Belarus). 19. There is none.
