

MISSING PERSONS

STEVE KAHAN
Hollis Hills, New York

Each of the thirty words listed below has resulted from the removal of the same three-letter name from the end and the beginning of two other words and running the remaining letters together. As an illustration, if we were to split the word CREDO between its first and second letters, the insertion of the name ALF would produce CALF and ALFREDO. Further, COG would be the outcome if LON were deleted from COLON and LONG. The logological authorities are on the prowl for these missing persons and have provided a roster of ninety three-letter names to facilitate your investigation. Can you offer them some assistance in their search?
