

VOWELS v CONSONANTS

The Vowels and Consonants are playing football but not exactly as we know the game. The matches are either 2 a side, 3 a side, 4 a side or 5 a side games. Amazingly, each game always ends in a score draw, in some cases an extremely high-scoring draw!

Letters represent players and all the players are accorded numbers based on their alphabetical positions. Currently, the EO vowel team are playing the HL consonants. The EOs predictably score 20 goals (5+15); and the HLs also score 20 goals (8+12). The HOLE game is over, the score is 20–20 and equality reigns between the Vowels and Consonants.

It should perhaps be mentioned that the Vowels and Consonants are all cloned so that in the case of the vowel players we are, for example, able to put together an AAI team and an OOO team. Unfortunately, we cannot stage any game in which all the vowel players are A clones. This is because, whatever the number of As, the equivalent number of consonants always exceeds the total of the As.

The vowel teams are listed in alphabetical order within each team size below.

The games are over and the vocal supporters have dispersed. The lowest score draw was 6-6 (the lowest possible) closely followed by 7-7; the highest was 87-87! The scores include a sequence of sixty six draws ranging from 10-10 to 75-75 with just one gap, 13-13 = vowel team AAAEE. However, to obtain the 70-70 and 74-74 draws it must be said that we cheated a little, both of these being the result of 6 a side demonstration games: CURA-LAUFQUEN<sup>26</sup> (70-70) and VUINAKAMBULU<sup>24</sup> (74-74). The remaining draws were 78-78, 79-79, 81-81, 84-84 and 87-87.

THE VOWEL TEAMS THAT GOT LET DOWN

Apart from A<sup>n</sup>, all the 2 a side and 3 a side vowel teams enjoyed a game, as did all the 4 a side teams with the exception of AAAE and IUUU. However, it was a different story with the 5 a side vowel teams, a number of which got let down badly. Can the reader find the names of 5 a side games for any of these frustrated vowel teams?
