Roman Numeral Transformations The two self-referential numbers in the first transformation are LXIII 63 and LXIX 69. The three in the second transformation are I, II, III, with I being the isolated number. In the third transformation, (1) the values that generate the most self-referential Roman numerals are, simply, their traditional numeric values. Out of 1-3999, (2) 2179 are self-referential, (3) 820 are non-self-referential, (4) 820 self-referential numbers also serve as portals, one for each non-self-referential numeral, (5) the remaining 1359 self-referential numerals are isolated, and (6) the problem is that Roman numerals higher than 3999 advance to a modified system with the introduction of a line over a letter to increase its value 1000 times. What values do these symbols take?

That Hour A Trap The paragraph is a reverse automynorcagram. The last letter of each word spells out the words from ENDS at the end to HEAR. The title is a two-way automynorcagram. The first letter of each word spells the first word, and the last letter spells the last word. For a real challenge, try writing a two-way automynorcagram of ten or more words.
