

MANUSCRIPTS

Ink runs from the corners of my mouth.
There is no happiness like mine.
I have been eating poetry.

The Manuscripts editors and staff extend their deepest thanks to Marilyn Porter, for making the time, when there was none, to typeset the copy and make it printer-ready; to George Sidensticker and the Maco Press, Inc. staff, for rushing our print order; to Shirley Daniell, for her advice and optimism; to Dr. Walsh, for giving us writers and readers a room of our own; to Dean Meszaros, for her vision about so many things and for her interest in our current and future goals; and to Susan Neville, mother-to-be for the second time, our constant advisor and friend, for always understanding and encouraging us.
