Manuscripts

A written word is the choicest of relics.
It is something at once more intimate with us and more universal than any other work of art.

It is the work of art nearest to life itself.
It may be translated into every language,
and not only be read but actually be breathed
from all human lips;
not be represented on canvas or in marble only,
but be carved out of the breath of life itself.

--Henry David Thoreau

The 1993-1994 Manuscripts staff would like to extend a special note of thanks to the faculty and staff of the Butler University English Department. Without their constant help and support, our magazine would not be the source of pride it is today.
