they lie together
    as if they had something in common besides words—

different words in each one leading through ten thousand avenues,
    practices,
    blossoming planets

they vibrate in chorus
    many tones forming chords, forming cords

that bind ten thousand times ten thousand thoughts
    and minds

Mari Kozlowski