THREE NEW TRANSDELETION PYRAMIDS

RICHARD SABEY
Chelmsford, Essex, England

In “Two New Transdeletion Pyramids” in the May 1988 Word Ways, the editor gives two 17-letter transdeletion pyramids found by Kyle Corbin, the first of which consists of words from either Webster’s New International Dictionary of the English Language, Second Edition or Webster’s Third New International Dictionary of the English Language. I believe that a word found in Webster’s Third is better than one found in Webster’s Second but not the Third, because (whatever the faults of the Third or the merits of the Second), the Third superseded the Second. Accordingly, I pass on three 17-letter transdeletion pyramids consisting entirely of words in the Third or inflections implied by the Third, assuming that section 4.1 of the explanatory notes is deemed to allow indiscriminate pluralising.

The three pyramids were originally found by James Allen and posted to the Usenet newsgroup rec.puzzles in 1994. Two of them as given below have been improved a bit by me, to replace obscure words by commoner ones. In the first, I replaced RODENTIAN by RENDITION, and in the second I replaced AREOLATIONS SENATORIAL LAIRSTONE by ELABORATION AREOLUTION RATIONALE. In each case the words following the change differ from James’s. NITROSOGUANIDINE can be found in 12000 Words, a Supplement to Webster’s Third New International Dictionary.
