

COLLOQUY

Dave Morice is preparing an anthology of one-word poems and seeks contributions. One from each contributor will be published in a series of 'matchbook'[-sized] volumes. It's not a contest. All are invited to send him as many they wish. As well, all contributions will go into the anthology, which will be sent to every contributor. Send yours to Dave, or ask him for further clarification or examples of what he has in mind, at <drabc1946@gmail.com>.

For example, Anil's 'misunderstanding'. But they needn't be puns or neologisms, poignant or evocative real words can be poems too.