The Charter of this Institution authorizes its Board of Directors to organize Colleges for Literature and Science, Law, Medicine, and a Normal School. The following Departments exhibit the Course of Study required for graduation in the College of Literature and Science, and Law. Additional departments will be organized as the exigencies of the Institution may demand.

I.—ENGLISH AND PREPARATORY DEPARTMENT.

Prof. Madison Evans, A. M.

In the English Department, the principal studies are Spelling, Reading, Penmanship, Mental and Written Arithmetic, Descriptive and Physical Geography, Rhetoric, History, English Grammar, Composition, Elocution, and Drawing.

In the Preparatory Department, the course comprises the Elements of Algebra, Latin and Greek.

II.—MATHEMATICAL DEPARTMENT.

Prof. G. W. Hoss, A. M.

The Studies in this Department are Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, Plane and Spherical; Surveying, Conic Sections, Mechanics, Calculus, and Astronomy.

Special instruction will be secured to any who may pursue the subject of Surveying with a practical object in view. Analytical Geometry may, at the option of the Class, be substituted for Surveying and Conic Sections, and the Elements of Engineering for Calculus.

Mathematical Instruments—Planetarium, Plane Compass, Solar Compass and Engineer's Theodolite.
III.—CLASSICAL DEPARTMENT.

Prof. A. R. BENTON, A.M.

The books read in this Department embrace an extensive course of study in Latin and Greek.

The course will comprise the reading of the following authors: In Latin—Caesar's Commentaries, Virgil, Cicero's Orations, Horace, Livy, Cicero de Amicitia, Tacitus, Cicero's Tusculan Disputations, Plautus. In Greek—Xenophon's Anabasis and Memorabilia, Herodotus, Homer's Iliad, Thucydides, Demosthenes, Sophocles, Greek and Roman Antiquities. Plautus, Thucydides, and Demosthenes are elective. Hebrew is elective.

IV.—DEPARTMENT OF NATURAL SCIENCE.

Prof. R. T. BROWN, A. M., M.D.

This Department embraces the study of Chemistry, Natural Philosophy, Physiology, Botany, Meteorology, Zoology, and Geology. The Text Books in this Department will be illustrated by Experiments, Charts, and Diagrams, and the whole course will be accompanied by lectures and full expositions of the principles taught.

In the last term of the year, a Course of Lectures will be delivered on Chemistry in its application to Agriculture and the Mechanical Arts.

V.—DEPARTMENT OF ETHICS AND INTELLECTUAL SCIENCE.

Prof. S. K. HOSHOURL A. M.

To this Department belong the Evidences of Revealed Religion and its Analogy to Nature, Moral Philosophy and Natural Theology.

For the present, Logic, Rhetoric, Intellectual Science, and Political Economy will be taught in this Department.

The Charter of the Institution requires the Bible to be taught as a Class-Book, but forbids the inculcation of sectarian or partizan dogmas; and to attain this end each Student will be required to attend a Bible Class every Monday morning.
VI.—DEPARTMENT OF MODERN LANGUAGES.

In this Department the German and French Languages are practically and available taught. In both languages the most approved Text Books are used—such as Woodbury’s Method in the German—his successive readers, and in order to familiarize the Student with the business part of the language, a weekly German Newspaper is, for a time, introduced and carefully studied.

In the French, Fasquelle’s Course is adopted, and at a suitable stage of the Student’s progress, a French Journal is also made a subject of study. The whole course for each language comprises one year and two-thirds. Classes will be formed only at the opening of each College year.

VII.—NORMAL INSTRUCTION.

Prof. G. W. HOSS, A. M.

A class will be taught in this Department throughout the year.

The exercises will consist of Drills in the Modes of Teaching the branches of a common school education accompanied by Lectures on the principles and methods of Organizing, Grading and Managing Schools.

No extra charge in this Department to members who are Students in other Departments of the Institution.
