CHAIR AIDS TOOL IS INTO

By sound, many words are a series of shorter words strung together, the parts often having no relationship in meaning to the whole: QUERIED = QUEER + REED. In the August 1969 Word Ways, J. A. Lindon suggested the name homophone for this type of word play. Notice that it extends the concept of homonym which, strictly speaking, is a single word with one sound but two or more spellings. The homophone is the aural equivalent of the charade, in which the constituent words must be read instead of spoken.

Some words-within-words make an eerie kind of sense. Several of my favorites are COME PASSION, PURR PUSS, NO BULL, GAS SO LEAN, GREW SOME, KING DUMB, PROMISE SORRY, and LOAN SUM.

To add to the word play possibilities, the internal words are often homonymous: NO BULL could equally well have been written KNOW BULL. In building your own words-within-words vocabulary, choose the homonym with the meaning that suits you best. You may elide, too: DEPEND translates as either DEEP END or DEEP PEND, and FERTILIZE, as FUR TILL EYES or FUR TILL LIES.

As J. A. Lindon has demonstrated, homophones can be strung together to form sentences which have a single sequence of sounds but can be interpreted in two different ways. Here are two poems illustrating the art:

NOT TWO NOT FOUR ONE EYE A DOOR

'Tis not a miss a miss two fined
With prom miss sinner glance, sir;
If miss with miss stir bee come bind,
Then miss chief is the ant, sir.

Alas two idle eyes ice ought
In sum seek lewd dead sex shun;
The no bull ass a lass wood knot
Axe seed too my affect shun.

If few sum made den wood a choir
She may a void dew wall so;
All ads are freak went lea a fire,
All asses oft are fall so.
NOT TO, NOT FOR, ONE I ADORE

'Tis not amiss a miss to find
With promise in her glance, sir;
If miss with mister be combined,
Then mischief is the answer.

A lass to idolize I sought
In some secluded section;
The noble lass alas would not
Accede to my affection.

If you some maiden would acquire,
She may avoid you also;
All lads are frequently afire,
All lasses oft are false, O.

This article concludes with a rudimentary lexicon of words-within-words for the reader who wishes to try his hand at constructing similar sentences. You are welcome to add to it until your head spins.
