he did not behave

the poet comes and leaves a trail of bruised feelings a messed-up reception and thoughts that won’t sit comfortably it is his job
it is his job
would you praise his razors if they never cut our edges?

Mari Kozlowski