Chapter 4: Tweedledum and Tweedledee – Logic Riddles

Given the sets of clues answer the questions asked

2 Truths and a Lie

Who broke the rattle, Tweedledum, Tweedledee, or Alice?

1. Alice says she did not break the rattle
2. Tweedledee says Alice did not break the rattle
3. Tweedledum says Tweedledee broke the rattle

Sorting Problem

Using the hints, put the characters in order from ate most to ate least oysters

1. The Carpenter ate more than Tweedledee but less than Tweedledum
2. The Walrus ate the most oysters of all behind only Tweedledum
3. Alice did not eat the least

Mystery Riddle

Alice comes across Tweedledum and Tweedledee, and they are both looking at a dead crow. She is determined to find out who killed the crow. She knows from meeting them before that one will always lie while the other will always tell the truth, she just does not know which will be honest. She is able to ask one question to either one of them to determine who was the murderer. What does she ask?

She knows from meeting them before that one will always lie while the other will always tell the truth, she just does not know which will be honest. She is able to ask one question to either one of them to determine who was the murderer. What does she ask?

She can ask either one who the other would say the murderer is – The answer is not the murderer, but the innocent one. If she asks the truthful one, he would know that the other would lie and so he would answer with the person who isn't the murderer. If you ask the dishonest one, he would know that the other would be honest, but he would then lie and give the answer of the person who did not do it. Both will give you the same person, and that person is innocent.
